INTRODUCTION:

WORLD CLASS LEARNING RIGHT HERE IN ASIA

It is your chance to earn the respect of your peers, mentor, and team members and use your own fullest potential. The current pace of change with multiple generations in the workplace has brought about a great demand for creative learning methods. With this comes a demand for training that is geared to the millennial learner's needs and is creative and enjoyable. The job of a trainer is more vital and challenging than ever. The trainers who can effectively pass on knowledge and skills are highly valued by the organization.

Without using a single physical energizer or a trivial activity, this practical workshop provides you with techniques for making learning enjoyable, memorable, relevant and personal. You will leave the course with a deeper understanding of the learning process, greater confidence and scores of tips for making the learning effective and fun.

In the last 22 years, over 1,500 trainers from Fortune-500 firms in South Asia and Middle East have attended this training with Wali, an Asian authority on workplace learning. Most of them are now successful commercial trainers. This year, you could be one of them.
